A review will then take place in front of the postoffice and court house building, which will be elaborately decorated. A public reception follows at the judge's chambers, after which Gen Grant and party proceed to Fort Omaha with an escort and there remain as the guest of Gen Crook till Monday. In answer to a telegram from the official board of the First M E church Gen. Grant telegraphs his acceptance of their invitation to him to attend morning service in that church next Sunday. Republicans are jubilant over the Grant boom, as they believe it will give the republican ticket a big boost next Tuesday when the election takes place.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct 30.—Isaac Jacobson, a sailor, recently convicted of the murder at sea of Charles D Brooks, mate of the ship ... on the 17th of August last, was to-day sentenced to be hanged on the 4th of January next.

Tilden's Income Case

NEW YORK, Oct 30.—The examination of James B Colgate, of the firm of Trevor & Colgate, brokers, was continued to-day before U S Commissioner Lymon in the suit against Samuel J Tilden to recover arrears of income taxes. Witness refused to produce his books and papers and was taken before Judge Choate in the U S district court, who heard argument in the matter and reserved his decision until to-morrow. Witness examination was resumed, but he could not recollect any stock he purchased from Tilden by looking at his books he might be able to refresh his memory and answer that question, but refused to do so and would give no reason for his refusal. The case then went over until to-morrow.

Murder and Suicide.

..., Oct. 30.—Mrs Frank Chalrs, living at Curtis creek near Walker's pavilion, Anne Arundel Co., shot her husband fatally yesterday and then shot and instantly killed herself.

Indians Prowling Near Rawlins.

RAWLINS, Oct. 30.—Col Brackett of the 3d cavalry, in command of a force at Rawlins, telegraphed to head quarters to-day that on ... while two of his men were out hunting one of them had his horse shot under him. A careful investigation proved beyond a doubt that the shooting was done by Indians. Pony tracks were found in the vicinity, and it was discovered that the bullet was from a fifty calibre rifle, none of which are used by the troops.

Funeral Honors to Lieut. Weir

The remains of Lieut Weir of the ordnance department arrived at Rawlins to day and were received by the troops encamped there. They were escorted to the court house by a company of the 9th infantry under command of Capt. Bowman, where an impressive address was delivered by Rev Mr Hamilton and the burial service of the Episcopal church read. The body remains at the court house under a guard of honor until midnight, when it will be shipped east.

Arrival of the White River Party at Denver.

DENVER, Oct. 30.—Mrs and Miss Meeker and Mrs. Price and two children, late captives among the Utes, arrived here to night. Miss Meeker is very sick.

Death of James M. Cavanaugh

A dispatch from Leadville states that Hon James M Cavanaugh, the first member of congress from Minnesota after admission to the union, and delegate to congress from Montana in 1867 and 1870, died there to-day of erysipelas. He had gone there last Thursday from New York, where his family now reside.

Another Case of Popular Justice

..., Oct. 29.—A Tribune Keokuk special says that the trial of Bill Young for the murder of Louis Spencer and four children ... in Kahoka, Mo., on Saturday, the verdict being not guilty. The culmination of the case, however, came to-day. The circumstantial evidence was strong, but was weakened by the flason of a detective's evidence. Although Young was acquitted, the belief in his guilt was very decided among citizens and they determined to lynch him. Sunday afternoon Young married Lyda ... of Ohio, and on Monday evening the couple arrived here before going to Young's house at Lavaya. As the train passed through Kahoka this morning Young and his wife alighted, and a mob of from 200 to 300 followed them on horseback and in wagons and surrounding his house demanded his surrender. Young opened fire on the mob and shots were exchanged until he was wounded. Eight men then forced their way into the house, took him out and hanged him. The excitement there is intense.

Disastrous Fire at Parker Pa

PARKER, Pa., Oct. 30.—A destructive fire occurred this morning originating at 3 30 in a small office, and was evidently the work of an incendiary. The fire spread so rapidly on account of high winds and scarcity of water that but little could be done to arrest the flames until that portion lying between the Mansion House and Wilson & Manifo... dry goods house, from the river to the bluff, was totally destroyed. About one hundred buildings were burned, comprising the principal business portion of the town, involving a loss of probably $200 000, upon which there was but little insurance, as policies were generally cancelled.

Both sides of the railroad on Front street for three blocks were entirely destroyed. Most of the business houses were partly ... by insurance ... about $200 000. The ... incendiarism ... with home ... and chattels ... [illegible]

Parliament

A supplement to the London Gazette publishes a proclamation against prorogating parliament until the ... of December. The proclamation is in the usual form, but does not contain the words "for the dispatch of business," which would be necessary if the session was contemplated before Christmas.

The Situation at Cabul

LONDON, Oct 30.—A dispatch from Cabul says that the population of Cabul is quite, but that it is a sullen calm. There can be no doubt that beneath it is a deep dread of British dominion. The people of Cabul are kept cowed simply by fear and would rise if they saw a chance of success.

Proclamation Relative to Afghanistan by the Viceroy of India.

SIMLA, Oct 30.—By order of the viceroy of India, Sir Frederick ... has issued a proclamation stating that in consequence of the abduction of the ameer and the outrage at the British residency the British government has been compelled to occupy Cabul and other parts of Afghanistan. Afghan authorities and chiefs and serdars are instructed by the proclamation to continue to maintain order in the districts under their control and are invited to hold a joint consultation with General Roberts. The people of occupied districts will be treated with justice and benevolence, and their religion and customs respected. Loyalty and good service to the British crown will be suitably rewarded, but all offenders against English administration will be punished. Arrangements for the permanent administration of the country will be made after the above mentioned consultation has been held.

Heavy Floods in Spain

MADRID, Oct 30.—There have been heavy rains throughout the entire country. At Malaga a water spout uprooted trees and injured many persons. At Vera, in Almeria, the river overflowed and flooded the mines, throwing 1500 men out of work. Twenty one persons were drowned and 30 houses and 500 000 pesetas worth of ore carried away. At Cuevas several lives were lost and one house destroyed. Marauders are taking advantage of these events to depredate on property. The Saragossa and Barcelona railway is submerged for a distance of 16 kilometres.

NOVA SCOTIA

Further Report of the Storm in Nova Scotia.

HALIFAX, Oct 30.—The storm of yesterday was felt severely in the eastern portion of Nova Scotia. At Port Mulgrave a hurricane raged all morning doing immense damage to buildings and wharves. Four schooners are ashore at Hastings and one at Cape Jack Light. Seven buildings were blown down, and such a severe storm was never experienced in this locality as raged here from early morning till noon when it reached its height. A number of buildings were blown down and the roofs of others blown to pieces and carried away by the wind. Scarcely a building in the place has escaped damage. It is reported that a house blew down at Cape Jack killing an elderly woman. Reports from every where in the province tell the same story of disaster.

WEST INDIES.

The Chinaman in Cuba.

HAVANA, Oct 30.—Captain General Blanco has promulgated the following decree: "In consequence of article 9 in the recent treaty between China and Spain, governors of provinces are ordered to speedily take a census of Chinamen, the census to be classified as follows: Chinamen under contract and re-contract, runaway Chinamen, imprisoned Chinamen, domiciliated and naturalized Chinamen. The census must be completed by the 15th of December."

The House of Lords

[From the London Saturday Review

We are constantly being told that the house of lords has largely increased in numbers, which is true. But we are also told that it has increased in proportion to the population, which is not so certain. At the beginning of the fourteenth century Edward I summoned 109 lay peers besides bishops and abbots. The population of England was then a little over 2 000 000. The roll before us enumerates 500 separate peerages, of which 44 are Scotch or Irish representatives. So that we have now 456 peers to a population of about 2 ... If to the 109 lay lords of Edward I we add the spiritual peers—including besides the 21 bishops the mitred abbots—it is obvious that the upper house was in proportion to the population more than ... times as large in 1300 as in 18... As in the beginning of the reign of Henry VIII there were only 40 peers of all kinds, the population being then about ... the proportion was about half what it is at present. At the beginning of the reign of Queen Elizabeth the number of peers was 89, and the population a little above ... so that the proportion was somewhat less than at present. Mr Stubbs has made some interesting ... on the subject, from which it appears that during the reign of Henry IV the number of temporal lords never exceeded ... under Henry V ... and under Henry VI. Small as these numbers are, even when increased by the addition of the bishops and abbots, they still ... in proportion to the population ... The actual numbers have varied very much. If the reign of Charles II the ... peers ... increased to ... doubled at the death of George II, and in the short reign of George IV ... received an increase of ... new peers. THE WALKER-TEAL CASE

... WALKER ... HIS OPTION AND HOW ... ESCAPE HIS GUARANTY

PORTLAND, Oct 29, 1879

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

There is a rumor pretty well authenticated that a certain judge intimates that he intends to have "Junius Brutus" disbarred because he puts conundrums to the supreme court to which no reply can be made that is in such a way as to debar any legitimate discussion in the press. It is admitted (!) that "Junius Brutus" has a right, under the constitution, to criticise supreme court decisions, but objection is made to unfiled opinions and their garnishings of wit and sarcasm. It is asserted however that a reply would be made to an ordinary criticism. Now I have a proposition to make. The "unfiled opinion" in the case of Walker and Hewitt vs Teal, as reported in the Douglas Independent, is on sale at the city book stores. I assert that the material facts in the case as declared by the chief justice and published in THE OREGONIAN of April 29, 1879, are stated in that "unfiled opinion" with absolute fairness. I further assert that the conclusions of law based on those facts are correct. I am willing to restate those facts and the reason... thereon in your columns without any of the trappings of the unfiled opinion, and if any one can deny the facts or refute the logic I agree to resign the office of attorney in the supreme court to which I have a vested right under the constitution and the laws. Provided that if the person taking up the cudgels shall fail, "Sir Lloyd Sauce," ... will please not rush upon the usual ... from R... —he shall resign his office. Is not this a fair proposition? Or if the champion object to the proviso it shall be omitted and he may stand in a position where he has all to win and nothing to lose.

Lessons Distinctly Taught

[Washington Special Oct 19 to Chicago Tribune

The Washington Gazette, which has been one of the noisiest of Bourbon papers with the fraud cry, this morning, in reviewing the Ohio situation, says: "Prosperity has come again and no party in the future will indorse the paper money heresy. To win the campaign of 1880 all the democrats have to do is to only ... the radicals have a rope ... a blunderbuss to the coat tail of the presidential candidates that will immolate them whenever they move and apply ... to a number of lofty patriots who make day and night hideous in congress. It is evident that the frightened democrats will make desperate efforts next winter to keep the confederate element still in congress."

The Herald says that by permitting themselves to be trapped into a defense of their war records and of Jeff Davis, the southern democrats placed on the Ohio democracy a load it could not carry. Ewing and Rice got more votes than any other two democrats could have polled this year, but the sectional debates of the extra session, the ... the confederate brigadiers and the Yazoo and Chisholm murders proved too much for them. The Herald adds: One lesson of the Ohio election is that the fraud issue is worthless if not more than worth less as a piece of political capital ... [illegible]

The Skagit Mines—Splendid Reports

SEATTLE, Oct 30.—Several miners arrived here by last evening's boat from the Skagit gold mines via Skagit City for the purpose of procuring supplies, etc. They report that a rush has set in for the diggings from all quarters. The principal route being up the Skagit river by canoes a distance of 10 miles above Mount Vernon, the present head of steamboat navigation. A still lesser number are coming in overland via New Westminster and Fort Hope in British Columbia. Gold is now being taken out in considerable quantities and operations will be continued all winter. A few claims are paying as high as from $10 to $40 per day to the man. Several claims have averaged $140 to the man per week recently. Robinson, one of the parties who arrived here last evening, and who is an old California and British Columbia miner, says that the gravel is the richest he ever saw.

Arrival at Victoria of the "Princess Louise" from Wrangel—Bad Report from the Stickeen Country—Hardships at Inverness.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

VICTORIA, Oct 30.—The steamer Princess Louise arrived here at 10 30 o'clock last night from Fort Wrangel and way ports having on board 95 white passengers, 99 Chinese, 50 Indians, and a quantity of miscellaneous freight, including 400 packages of salmon. On reaching Fort Wrangel it was found that nearly all the miners had arrived from Cassiar. The weather had been severe and some of the outward bound parties were detained by ice in the Stickeen river. As a rule the miners complained of a bad season in Cassiar, and some of them spoke of leaving Fort Wrangel for the Sitka quartz mines.

Bower creek, the most recent discovery in Cassiar, has created some excitement and it is reported that it has been prospected for fifteen miles with good results. There has been considerable ice in the Stickeen river, but it was cleared by subsequent rains and mild weather. The Naas river fishery closed on September 30, the run of cohoes salmon proving light there this year.

The C P R R surveying party is still at work, but is expected to be ready to embark for ... about the 10th proximo.

Advices received here last night by the Princess Louise state that the weather at Inverness on Skeena river has recently been extremely severe.

Early on the morning of the 1 th inst a landslide occurred, commencing at the summit of the mountain at the rear of the cannery, and in its course swept into the sea ... buildings occupied by men employed at the establishment. A number of tons of coal and many cords of firewood were destroyed by the slide. Fortunately no loss of life resulted, but one of the hands barely escaped. Just as he heard the trees and rocks crashing down the mountain side he jumped from a window in one of the buildings and thus saved himself. Had the slide taken place during the night a number of lives must inevitably have been lost.

PROTECTION WHICH OPPRESSES.

Yesterday we published a letter from a heavy dealer in metals doing business in San Francisco, which gave an account of the extraordinary rise since July 1st in the prices of iron pipe, sheet iron, nails, bar iron, and all articles into which iron enters as a principal material. It may as well be observed that all these commodities are covered by heavy "protective" duties. The large demand for them cannot be filled by our own manufacturers, most of whom have orders for months ahead and the duties, virtually prohibitory, shut out the foreign supply. Hence prices, which some time since had passed the rate of any reasonable profit, still go up and up, and the consumer must pay just what the manufacturer sees fit to demand.

Though this discussion, when applied to steel rails, may touch a branch of the subject in which many may appear to have little interest because the exactions of the tariff on steel rails are too indirect to be distinctly perceived by the great mass of the people affected by them, here at least, in the matter of iron in other and more familiar forms, is afforded an illustration which all can comprehend. The farmer who buys a stove, a wagon or a plow, finds the price marked up to meet the views of makers with whom the protective duty on all forms of iron allows no competition. The man who builds a house or a store finds the same thing in the case of nails, iron fronts and pillars and other materials he must buy. The man who has to lay a pipe to supply his house with water, or who wishes to put in his house a heating apparatus, discovers that he is forced to pay fifty per cent more than a short time ago. An increased demand is created by the revival of business, and as protection shuts out competition from abroad, the home monopoly is enabled to enforce its extortions.

So great an advance in prices is not healthy nor natural. It is a burden on the enterprise and development of the country for the benefit of iron mills. In large part the great rise in the prices of all kinds of metals and metal goods is due to artificial values imposed upon business through stupid and selfish tariff legislation. The injustice of it is awakening protests from all parts of the country. The St. Paul Press says: "When the needs of the country outrun for the moment the capacity of home manufacturers to supply them, producers are compelled by the tariff to pay two or three prices, not only for the surplus imported, but, since prices rise to a level, for the whole amount consumed. This is a good sort of a business boom for the manufacturers; but it is a heavy tax upon the awakening enterprise of the country, and one that will not long be patiently borne."

Prof. Perry of Williams College, one of our most noted writers on political economy, has an article in the November number of the North American Review, which goes to the bottom of the subject. "The tariff-sign," he says, "is always a minus sign and never a plus sign. It demands always; it renders never. The ten commandments are all reduced in a tariff to one commandment:—thou shalt pay." And yet, "many people think and speak of a tariff as if it were a positively productive agent, a spur and a reward to industry." "Tariff duties lessen importations. As protective, they are designed to do this. But if importations are lessened by the duties, exportations are necessarily lessened also. By refusing to buy, any nation loses thereby opportunity to sell. Buying and selling are reciprocal acts. Whatever, then, artificially and forcefully lessens the imports into a country, destroys a market for the exports of that country. Whoever will not buy cannot sell. If the makers of some manufactured goods realize for a while a higher price for their wares under a tariff-duty imposed for their benefit, the makers of some other manufactured goods, or the growers of agricultural goods, as the case may be, which would naturally go abroad in payment for what would be imported but for tariff-duty, realize a lower price for their wares in consequence of that duty. They lose a part or the whole of that market." This just meets our case here in the Pacific northwest. Protection forces us to pay high prices for goods from the east and at the same time injures our market—imposing burdens on the shipment of our products to foreign countries, which alone can take them. Direct trade with England would lessen one-third the cost of shipping our wheat thither, all of which would be saved to the farmer; and at the same time it would rescue us from the monopoly prices established by eastern manufacturers and upheld by "protection."

But hear Prof. Perry further: "Protective duties shut out from the markets of the world a part of the surplus products of this country; and these, in consequence, fall in price below their natural level, just as dutied goods rise in price above their natural level. It is a two-edged sword; and it smites, for the most part, one great class of people, namely, the agricultural class. They are compelled to pay more than is just and natural for many of the manufactured goods that they have to buy, and at the same time under this reaction of the tariff, to sell what they have to sell for a less price than is natural and just. Farmers do not like this legislation, and when they have become a little better educated as to its bearings and results they will not have it. They know something is smiting them, and when they find out a little better than they know now what it is, they will smite it, with a vengeance."

PATRIOTS AND PATRIOTS.

We learn from the Commercial Reporter of this city, which has the intelligence from the New York Journal of Commerce, that a few days ago in Brooklyn Senator Conkling "made a long campaign speech, full of partisan feeling and sectional hate and misrepresentation." Also that in Savannah on the day following, "Senator Gordon delivered a union-loving patriotic address on the occasion of the Jasper centennial." We are informed also that "the northern senator in his speech was nothing if not sectional, and the representative of a party." But the southern senator "repudiated sectionalism with great vehemence and eloquence, and said not one word to identify himself with any political organization." And to crown all, "the former, in the low and envenomed tone of his speech, sank far beneath the level to which a man of his pretensions should have risen in discussing campaign issues, while the latter took and easily kept the high table land of patriotic thought which so many American statesmen—Senator Conkling among them—long ago deserted." This strain [illegible] on at great length, but we have [illegible] enough to satisfy the most [illegible] reader outside of that class who take their lessons in patriotism, [illegible] from statesmen like Senator Gordon, late of the military service of the "Confederate States of America."

Senator Gordon represents that phase of [illegible] "patriotism" which made war [illegible] which [illegible] into a conflict that cost it a million lives and six thousand millions of dollars, which wickedly sent mourning and [illegible] and woe throughout every part of the land, and which left the country a legacy of debt to be a burden to the present and [illegible] generations. All this was done only [illegible] Senator Gordon and his associates had been beaten in an election. Finding they could no longer rule the nation they malignantly resolved to destroy it. Conquered only by the most prodigious exertions on the part of those who adhered to the union and the national cause, these patriots of the Gordon type desisted from their purpose and effort against the union and the national cause only when they were overwhelmed by force and then they yielded a sullen and compelled obedience, regretting their inability to prolong the rebellion and chafing under their defeat. Ere long, however, through the unexampled favor and clemency of the government they had waged so wicked and bloody a war to destroy, they were admitted again to all their forfeited privileges. In great force they came back into congress, and to the people of those states which had sustained the government and preserved the union against their rebellious efforts to destroy both, they insolently proclaimed their purpose to "wipe from the statute book the last vestige of your war legislation," and to force into the national government the state supremacy doctrines and dogmas of the southern confederacy. This has produced, as might have been expected, an uprising of the north like that of 1861. Senator Conkling's speech at Brooklyn was a proper and highly forcible denunciation of the past course of such "union-loving patriots" as Senator Gordon, as well as of their intentions for the future as shown by their utterances and efforts during the extra session of congress. His speech was "sectional" just as the cause of the union was sectional in the time of the rebellion. It was devoted to the idea that there could be no basis for union and peace on the violent sectionalism of the solid south, still restive under defeat, seeking control of the government it could not destroy, stamping out political opposition in violence and blood, still asserting that this not the nation the United States fought for, but only the league of states which the southern confederacy fought for, and on every possible occasion, right in the council halls of the nation, defending the rebellion and exalting it as the highest effort of patriotism which the country has ever known. Condonation of the rebellion has been granted by the country, but it will not endure to hear the rebellion extolled as a patriotic effort, nor will it believe that men like Senator Gordon who were the leaders of that rebellion are the best patriots in it. That may do for a credulous commercial journal here and there, whose instincts lead it into the northern partnership with the confederate south; but the great patriotic masses of the northern states are telling in the elections what they think about it. They are not so easily deceived into looking upon men like Gordon and Lamar and Blackburn as models of the best type of patriotism.

But Senator Gordon and his colleagues utter such beautiful sentiments now and then when a Jasper centennial or some occasion of that kind is presented! Then they tell how they love the union and the whole country, and how they embody in themselves and in their principles and purposes the whole theory and practice of devotion to patriotic duty; and northern men here and there, with easy credulity and short memories, discredit or forget history, catch up the refrain and proclaim this transparent hypocrisy, set off with oily words, as the most truly wonderful and only genuine article of patriotism, fit to be paraded as a rebuke to those who know and remember what these men are from the history they have made during twenty years past and from the purposes they proclaimed even so recently as the late session of congress. Speeches like that made by Senator Gordon at Savannah are doubtless very fine. But experience has shown that "a union loving patriotic address" from such a quarter may not mean very much. Jefferson Davis delivered just such an one when he retired from the United States senate to take his place at the head of the confederate government. And Senator Gordon holds that he was acting the part of a patriot when he led a division in Lee's army. The unctuous hypocrisy with which the leaders of the rebellion talk of their love for the union they wanted to destroy, and the bold hardihood with which they impugn the patriotism of those who preserved the union against their rebellious efforts, are not likely to prevail with the country to the extent of inducing it to intrust the government wholly to their hands, particularly after the warning given by the speeches of the late extra session of congress.

AGRICULTURAL STATISTICS.

The superintendent of the census has issued a circular setting forth the manner of returning agricultural statistics. The law provides for a report of the chief productions of agriculture for the year ending June 1, 1880. It also provides that the census shall be taken and completed during June, 1880. All the crops which are gathered once a year will fall pretty clearly on one side or the other of this dividing line. Thus the cotton crop reported will be gathered in the fall of 1879, while the wool crop will be that of the spring of 1880, except in portions of California and Texas. For certain agricultural products, however, there is no harvest in the usual sense of that term, but the product is gathered week by week or day by day. Milk, butter, cheese and meat belong to this class. It is urgently recommended therefore that all persons engaged in agriculture should make notes from time to time of the quantities and values of their several crops and the number of acres of land planted in order that their statements may be of the highest possible value. The following table presents the products mentioned in the agricultural schedule, arranged accordingly as they fall into the calendar year 1879 or 1880, or are to be returned for the twelve months begining June 1, 1879:

Calendar Year, 1879—Wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley, buckwheat, rice, tobacco, cotton, potatoes, peas and beans, orchards, vineyards, small fruits, hay, clover seed, grass seed, hops, hemp, flax, flax seed, sugar cane and sorghum—acres and quantity; bees, number of hives, pounds of honey and wax.

Calendar Year 1880—Wool—Number of fleeces and pounds; maple sugar, pounds; maple molasses, gallons.

Twelve Months Ending May 31—Butter, cheese and milk sold, quantity; animals slaughtered, value; market gardens, acres and value; forest products and home manufactures, value.

The Russian journal Golos, a sort of official organ of the government, in commenting upon Lord Salisbury's recent speech, remarks that "if the reported Austro-German alliance proves to be a reality, Russia must secure to herself allies to act in the rear of the enemy in case of emergency." This could point only to an alliance with France. But the French republic evinces no desire to make such alliance. It is no [illegible]. Besides, Russia did not come to the aid of France in the dreadful crisis of [illegible], and if she did [illegible] now against [illegible] be [illegible].

[illegible] from Washington show that the value of exports of live [illegible]

Says the New York Times, itself a very independent journal: "Most of [illegible] the Independents seek are at least possible through the means of a republican victory; not one is remotely possible if the democrats are coming into full power in the nation."

This lovely bud, so young, so fair,
Called hence by early doom,
Just came to show how sweet a flower
In Paradise would bloom.
Ere sin could harm, or sorrow fade,
Death came with friendly care
The opening bud to Heaven conveyed
And bade it blossom there.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—12:35 A. M.—For Pacific coast, generally clear weather.

CITY.

RESTING ON THEIR ARMS.—Wednesday evening the ordinance authorizing the appropriation of a certain sum of money out of the general fund to supply a deficiency in the E street fund, came up on its third reading in the common council. On motion the ordinance was read the third time and passed by a vote of six to three. The names of councilmen voting in the affirmative and negative were published in yesterday's OREGONIAN. After the vote was taken and the result announced, Mayor Thompson stated to the council that he failed to see just how the warrant for the amount named in the ordinance could be drawn, as the auditor and clerk, Mr. Durham, had been enjoined and restrained by Judge Bellinger from drawing such a warrant. If the clerk drew the warrant authorized by the ordinance, he would be subjecting himself to punishment for contempt of court. Councilman Simon moved that the members present who had voted in favor of the passage of the ordinance be cited to appear before Judge Bellinger and show cause, if they could, why they should not be punished for contempt of court. Another member jocularly seconded the motion, but Mayor Thompson laughingly remarked that he considered the motion entirely in order. It is certain that Mayor Thompson will return the ordinance without approval; and it seems equally certain that the council will pass it over the veto. The warrant cannot be drawn without committing contempt of court, so the opposing forces are resting quietly on their arms.

DANGEROUS SMASH-UP.—Mrs. B. Gallagher and her little son, Willie, were thrown from a buggy yesterday afternoon near the corner of Morrison and Sixth, and the former severely injured. Fortunately the lad escaped with only a few scratches. Mrs. Gallagher was driving a spirited horse which took fright and shied suddenly to one side. The buggy threw the occupants of the vehicle to the ground. The woman received a severe cut over the eye and it is thought has sustained internal injuries. After dumping the woman unceremoniously into the street, the horse continued his course down Morrison and was caught by Adam Kirsch, a German, in front of the postoffice. He righted the overturned buggy and jumping in took the lines and started for the stable. Scarcely had he proceeded twenty yards when one of the wheels came off and rolling in front of the horse again scared the animal, which once more started to run and threw, with considerable force, into a convenient mud-puddle, his willom driver. The now thoroughly frightened animal continued down Morrison street to Second, and thence to the Washington hotel, where he ran into a post and brought up with a sudden jerk. The buggy was smashed to pieces.

LACHET FOUND GUILTY.—The case of State of Oregon vs. Charles B. Lachet, indicted for assault with intent to kill, was on trial in the circuit court yesterday. Several months ago, it will be remembered, Lachet made a murderous assault on Ed. Stone, at the [illegible] restaurant on Washington street, with a butcher's cleaver. He struck Stone on the side of the head just above the left eye, inflicting a dangerous wound. Stone was lying in bed at the time the blow was struck. He threw up his hand to ward off the blow and received a very severe cut. So far as could possibly be ascertained, the murderous assault was made without the shadow of provocation, motives of either revenge or robbery not prompting the deed. The circumstances seem to support the theory that the act was committed by Lachet while he was laboring under a fit of temporary insanity. On no other reasonable ground can his action be explained. The case went to the jury at [illegible] o'clock. At 5 minutes to 4 o'clock, the jury came in with a verdict of guilty as charged in the indictment.

PINAFORE.—Rehearsals for Pinafore are progressing finely, and there is every reason to believe that the place will be produced in splendid style. The chorus is under personal charge of Prof. Kinross, and the whole management devolves upon Mr. Fred Lyster, a tried and experienced musical director. The ladies and gentlemen are laboring with untiring zeal and the good effects of their skill and experience as directors are very apparent in the degree of proficiency attained both by the principals and the chorus. Thorough rehearsals are being held each evening, and some rehearsals every day. Pinafore will not be produced until next Monday evening, at which time the company will be perfect in their respective roles, and a first-class production may be anticipated. Box sheet will be opened this morning at 10 o'clock.

ANOTHER CELESTIAL CONVICTED.—Late yesterday afternoon the case of State of Oregon vs. Con Pan was called in circuit court for trial. The defendant was indicted for an assault with a dangerous weapon on the person of Ah Con. It seems that Ah Con was indebted in a small sum to Con Pan. The latter met the former on Second street, in front of the Joss house and demanded his money. Ah Con replied that he did not have the money just then and could not pay it. Thereupon Con Pan struck him and kicked him and then drawing a knife stabbed him in the left side, inflicting a dangerous wound. The jury was empaneled at 4 o'clock. A number of witnesses were called and the jury retired about 5 o'clock. After a short deliberation they returned with a verdict of guilty.

BODY RECOVERED.—Three weeks ago James [illegible], a young man well known in this city, fell overboard from a scow at White's landing on Willamette slough, and was drowned before assistance could reach him. Search was made for his body for several days after the sad occurrence, but without avail. Wednesday the body was found by a man who was out duck hunting, floating some distance from where he fell into the water. The remains were brought to this city yesterday morning and will be buried to-day. Funeral will take place from the M. E. church this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

THE INFAMOUS.—The following communication has been handed in by a committee of citizens who cannot appreciate Wagner's music of the future: "The out of date organ which is heard all hours of the day and nearly all night, and plays but two poor substitutes for tunes, is a public nuisance. If there is any authority to have it stopped, business men in the neighborhood of First and Taylor streets do appeal to same. It seems it is likely to keep up all winter."

COMPLIMENTARY RESOLUTIONS.—Since Lieut. Farrow's return from the Blue mountains, he has received a set of resolutions of a most complimentary character with regard to his valuable services, apologizing for having misunderstood him early in the campaign, and requesting Gen. Howard to return him to that country. The resolutions are signed by many prominent citizens, including the officers who last spring wrote disparagingly of him.

EMMET GUARD EXCURSION.—The Emmet Guard will hold their annual target excursion at Albina to-day, where the members will contest for various valuable prizes. In the evening they will give a grand ball at the armory, corner Front and Washington streets. The music for the occasion will be furnished by the Northwestern band under the leadership of Prof. J. H. Brenner. A pleasant time is promised.

FROM ASTORIA.—The following specials to the Merchants' Exchange from Astoria were received yesterday: 8 A. M.—Clear; strong SE wind. Br. bark Zampa arrived down at 7 A. M. 3 P. M.—Br. barks Loch Cree and [illegible] and ship Tecumseh are at anchor at Baker's Bay. Br. ship Loudon is outside with the tug; the Victoria Cross crossed out this forenoon.

ELECTION.—At a meeting of Nonpareil lodge, No. 86, I. O. G. T., held Oct. 28th the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: E. W. Ryan, W. C. T.; Miss C. A. Colby, W. V. T.; W. A. Robinson, W. S.; Annie Best, W. F. S.; R. H. Banker, W. T.; Wm. Hazlet, W. M.; George Forbes, W. C.; Mrs. S. Robinson, I. G.; J. Grindley, O. G.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.—A dwelling house, situated half a mile from [illegible], and occupied by Mr. Thomas S. [illegible], was completely destroyed by fire yesterday morning, together with all the furniture it contained. The premises belong to [illegible] Pendleton. The loss is about [illegible].

PHOTOGRAPHS OF THE PAVILION.—Frank G. Abell, the well known artist, has taken [illegible] separate views of the interior of the pavilion and placed them on exhibition with his display in the art gallery. They receive much attention, and favorable comment.

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

TENTH DAY.

No Diminution in the Attendance—The Orphans at the Exhibition Yesterday—The Art Gallery—Children's Day—The Fair Closes To-morrow Night.

Yesterday afternoon the little ones from the [illegible] and the children from the Home, with [illegible] were admitted free, and enjoyed the sight [illegible] as much as the adults who have visited [illegible]. The managers of the [illegible] kindly gave them free admission to that wonderful [illegible] of mechanism.

Last night the attendance was all that could be desired. Yesterday fifteen hundred tickets for school children were placed in the hands of Superintendent T. H. Crawford and by him distributed among the teachers to be sold at ten cents each. Scholars who desire to attend this afternoon should take their short bits to school this morning and get tickets of their respective teachers, as no ten cent tickets will be sold at the door.

By a vote last night the directors decided to close the fair to-morrow night. We predict an immense attendance for the last two days.

The following is the band programme for to-night:

1—Grand March
2—Nancy Lee.
3—Ernani
4—Free as a Bird.
5—Andante
6—Wild Hunt Galop

The Art Gallery.

To justly criticise the various paintings, pictures and other articles of vertu in this department of the exhibition, would require a knowledge of art beyond that usually possessed by men who have not been blessed with the privilege of standing as it were in the presence of the old masters, and feasting the eye upon the works of Titian, Raphael or Murillo. Comparing, for instance, the exhibit of the pupils of St. Helen's Hall with the efforts of other young ladies whose hands have just begun to be trained to handle the brush, we should pronounce it excellent, and say that the pupils and teachers are to be congratulated upon the showing they have made, though the critical eye of an artist would detect many things which ought to be corrected.

Among local artists whose works are on exhibition, Mr. E. K. Hill is probably entitled to rank first and his paintings are admired by all,—his Mt Hood from Summit Prairie being a particularly grand and impressive representation of that old monarch of the Cascade range, as seen when standing near its base and looking up to its snow crowned summit. Other productions of his skillful brush attract much notice and all of them show the touch of the true artist.

Thad. Welch, whom we still claim as an Oregon boy, left in the hands of friends here some of his early works, which found their way to the walls of the art gallery, to remind us of him in his long continued absence. Among them are a Landscape Scene, Strawberries and Cream, and "One of the Days when I was Young." In the latter the author is represented as mounted upon the back of a young steer, the animal plunging madly down a steep hill pursued by a huge hound. Compared with some other pictures in the gallery Mr. Welch's works look exceedingly well, but were he here he could doubtless show us many, and perhaps some glaring defects in all of them.

Capt. C. Rockwell has some oil paintings as well as some water color pictures, which show him quite an artist for one not devoting his entire attention to the brush and palette. His painting of Big Meadows is quite a true and beautiful representation of that spot, one of the finest landscape scenes on the American continent. His Klamath river is also well done for a non professional. With his genius Capt. Rockwell, by the devotion to art for years, which every celebrated painter has been compelled to give, would doubtless rise to eminence as an artist of the brush.

W. G. Parrott also exhibits a number of his works, some of them very fair, and showing a vast improvement upon the first efforts of this young student presented to the public. Mr. Parrott is devoted to his profession, and we expect him to achieve a large measure of success, as he is a hard student and an earnest lover of the art.

Mrs. E. F. Hurgren shows several works, by herself, among them a painting of J. L. Atkinson's residence and some fruit pieces and flower panels, all very life like and natural and showing a skill which none can have without study and labor.

Mrs. M. E. Andrews exhibits a number of drawings and some very pretty landscape scenes made of mosses of varied colors, in the arrangement of the material of which she displays true taste and exquisite skill.

Horace Duesbury, a young man who devotes his principal attention to portrait painting, shows several of his works which evince very great skill in his line of the art.

Clyde Cook, of Salem, who is not unknown to the public as a young artist of merit and promise, presents Snoqualmie Falls, Mount Tacoma, Head of the Dalles and other subjects. Mr. Cook is evidently a born artist, but artists are never born perfect, and the summit to which the "old masters" climbed with all their natural genius was not reached by a single bound or by easy grades. Study and much toil is in store for all, however much they may love their art, before they can reach the acme of the true painter's ambition. Clyde loves his chosen calling and ought to be encouraged to pursue it to the end.

Miss Lucy Mason contributes several paintings, some of which are very good for one of her years.

Mrs. D. A. Hood contributes some portraits, which are much noticed by visitors, but which are not so much admired as is her painting of a scene in the Adirondacks or even her view of Portland.

Miss Emma Holman shows a barn on Clatsop beach; Minnie Lee, castle on the Rhine; Minnie Clausen, scenery in Colorado; Mrs. M. B. Virgil, Mt. Hood; Mary A. Severance, Mt. Hood; Mrs. F. R. Wilson, two oil paintings on tin; R. M. Wood, Spokane Falls in Oregon and a Siberian scene done with a pen; Mrs. L. A. Lindsay, crayon portraits; Geo. Johnson, pencil sketch of railroad engine and coach; Robbins & Yates, California, by Cooper, scene in the Alleghanies, by Parrott, and a copy of Titian's Madonna, by Lingg, and Mrs F. W. Miller, crayon drawings, dogs and houses after Landseer.

Mr. W. T. B. Nicholson exhibits some oil paintings by his daughter, Miss Minnie, who is a young student of the art of much promise. Her subjects are well chosen and her work displays evident ability.

Mrs. M. A. Edmunds contributes some carefully painted pictures which are handsome and would be ornamental in any collection. They are Bitter Root River, Coast of Florida, Yosemite Falls and a fancy sketch.

Leslie Dodge shows well executed paintings of three horses—Bacon's Hambletonian, Ena Maynard, and Major Bruce's Clydesdale, a piece entitled "monarch of all he surveys," and other works.

This about completes the list of oil paintings and other pictures, except the photographic displays by Messrs. Abell and Buchtel by local or Oregon artists, in addition to which there are many oil paintings by artists abroad, and one owned by Mrs R. Hoyt, said by critics to be in all probability the work of the great Raphael's hand. Its history as far as known has been given in our columns, the subject being David with the head of Goliah. Whoever may have painted this picture, whether Raphael or John Smith, understood the force of light and shade, perspective, etc., far better than we are able to tell.

Mr. S. G. Skidmore owns and exhibits an oil painting of a New Hampshire beech forest by Thos. Hill, of San Francisco, father of Mr. E. R. Hill of this city, and an artist with a national reputation. It is a beautiful work and shows the touch of a master hand.

His excellency Mayor Thompson owns a number of very fine and costly pictures which the public greatly admire, as their excellence and number go to make one of the most attractive features of the entire exhibition. Among them are The Herd at the Ford, by Miss Hartwell, dogs, fruit piece and a portrait by Charles Arndt, portrait of a child by B. Reginn. The Lovers by Duesbury, the pictures before mentioned by Clyde Cook, a Venitian Beauty by Kaulbach and last and best Charlotte Corday in prison, also by Arndt. This last is the most admired as a work of art of all the paintings in the gallery.

Besides the Raphael mentioned above as belonging to Mrs. R. Hoyt, that lady also adds largely to the interest and beauty of the collection by the exhibition of a number of other excellent paintings, from Italia's sunny land, the home of the art in the olden time. Among them is a Madonna and child, by Sucino; Mater Dolorosa, by a pupil of Carlo Dolcio; Scene in the Mediterranean, Santa Cecelia, and Ruins of Aqueduct near Rome, all by Angelo Tosi.

Some paintings and other pictures have probably been omitted, to be noted hereafter, but the foregoing comprise nearly all of note.

There are in addition to the pictures several other objects of rare beauty and artistic design in this department. Among them are the sculptures in marble by Wm. Young; specimens of penmanship by Prof. W. L. White, and an I. O. O. F. chart by Sol Ripinsky.

In the same department is shown an old bill of sale of a slave and a Latin book printed 300 years ago, owned by Mrs. David Steel, a copy of the first issue of the New York Herald by G. W. Pittock, and a copy of a newspaper printed in a confederate prison by Mary E. Wilcox.

Frank G. Abell's Photographic Display.

Most wonderful has been the progress made during the past few years in the photographic art. This extraordinary advancement is illustrated by the splendid display of portraits and photographic views from the gallery of Mr. Frank G. Abell, which form a prominent feature in the art exhibit at the pavilion, occupying the entire northern end of the large art department. For scarcely a moment since the fair opened has the standing space in front of this rarely attractive display been unoccupied by groups of admiring people. Maidens with jealous eyes search, fearing to find copies of beauty more charming than their pretty selves; while their grandmamas sigh, with almost forgotten vanity, that the charms of their youth live only in memory. Mr. Abell's exhibit contains every variety of photograph, from the tiniest locket picture of the smallest child to the grand full life-size bust picture—the handsomest of this latter class being a portrait of himself the center piece of his wall display. Cards, cabinets, crayon portraits, genuel pictures, full length portraits and the novel lithographs, many of them finely set in frames and arranged in [illegible] detail, form strikingly beautiful effects, at the same time displaying in the most creditable light their artistic qualities. The [illegible] of these [illegible] well they have stood the test.

A GAME THAT DIDN'T WORK.

On the 19th of October, 1870, Moses Elliott, then living in Clatsop county, in this state, insured his life for $5000 in the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. The policy was transferred to his father, Jeremiah, in the subsequent November. It is charged that on or about the 24th of June, 1871, a conspiracy was formed by Jeremiah Elliott and his wife Arty Mersey Elliott, Albert and James Madison Elliott and Wm. H. Deardorf to defraud the company out of the amount of the policy by pretending that Moses Elliott was drowned in the Columbia river and the body not recovered. After several attempts they succeeded by numerous affidavits in convincing the officers of the company that Moses had "gone to that undiscovered country," etc., and Jeremiah received the amount of the policy, $5000 in gold coin. He, with the remainder of the gang, moved to Jackson county and bought 640 acres of land and a band of sheep with the ill-gotten means, and to secure himself against future suits transferred the property to his wife.

It has since transpired that Moses Elliott was not drowned, but that he had hidden himself, and after a few years came to light as Frank Williams. The company has brought suit against the Elliotts in the U. S. circuit court to recover the amount and the defendants have been commanded to appear next Monday before Judge Deady. Hon. E. D. Shattuck, Senton Killen and J. C. Moreland appear on behalf of the company, and B. F. Dowell, of Jacksonville appears for the defense of Jeremiah, Arty and James Elliott.

A HANDSOME COUNTER.

There was shown yesterday at the salesrooms of the Oregon Furniture Company, corner First and Yamhill streets, one of the handsomest counters ever made in this state. It is twenty-one feet long with a return of eight feet and is made of Oregon ash. The top is of rich black walnut, filled and polished to a mirror-like smoothness. The counter has eight bracket columns hand carved and further ornamented with ebonized engraving. The main panels are sunk three inches and heavily moulded. The top panels are adorned with chain carving. Each panel has five black walnut rosettes, and is further beautified by ebonized engraved keystones. This splendid piece of work was constructed for Messrs. Handley & Sinnott, proprietors of the Umatilla House at the Dalles, and has been in the store for a few days. It was the intention of the company to exhibit the counter at the Mechanics' Fair, but were prevented by want of space.

MILITARY NOTES.

Second Lieutenant Edward S. Farrow, 21st infantry, commanding Indian scouts, is hereby relieved from further duty in connection with the delivery of Indian prisoners at Vancouver barracks, W. T., and will return, without delay, to the camp of his command at Umatilla agency, Oregon. All public stores and property for which Lieut. Farrow is responsible, will be turned in at Fort Walla Walla, W. T.

He and 2d Lieut. William C. Brown, 1st cavalry, on duty with the command, will then proceed to join their respective companies for duty.

Every family should keep the Dandelion Pills on hand.

FALSE IMPRESSION.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia cannot invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER has never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 60,000 dozen bottles sold last year not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from Druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Hodge, Davis & Co.

White's Prairie Flower.

Taken before retiring, will insure a good night's rest, with an awakening in the rosy morn to health, courage and vigor. Fur coated tongue, bad breath, sick headache, or any disturbance arising from dyspepsia or torpid liver, it is without a peer. Its action on disease is entirely different from any medicine ever introduced, quieting pains almost instantly. The hue and cry raised against it by patent medicine men, who have foreseen in its advent the destruction of their nefarious business, and the thousands of unsolicited testimonials flowing in from all parts of the New World is a sure indication of its great merits. Trial size at all Drug Stores. Half pound bottles 75 cents.

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, OCT. 31, 1879.

THE BRIDE.

Her finger was so small, the ring
Would not stay on which they did bring
It was too wide a peck;
And to say truth (for out it must),
It looked like the great collar, just
About our young colt's neck.

Her feet beneath her petticoat
Like little mice stole in and out
As if they feared the light.
But oh! she dances such a way
No sun upon an Easter day
Is half so fine a sight.

Her cheeks so rare a white was on
No daisy makes comparison
(Who sees them is undone),
For streaks of red were mingled there
Such as are on a Katharine pear,
The side that's next the sun.

Her lips were red, and one was thin
Compared to that was next her chin,
(Some bee had stung it newly);
But Dick, her eyes so guard her face
I durst no more upon them gaze
Than on the sun in July.
—Sir John Suckling.

The quarterly report of R. G. Dun & Co. shows that for the third quarter of 1879 the failures in the United States have been less than one half than for the third quarter of 1878, the precise decrease being 1,591. The liabilities show even a much larger proportionate reduction, being less than one-quarter of what they were in the same period of last year—the figures showing the liabilities of 1879 to be fifteen millions against sixty six millions for the third quarter of 1878. It will, of course, be remembered, that for the first two months of the third quarter of 1878 the failures were unusually numerous, owing to the prospective repeal of the bankrupt law in September of that year; but, even taking that circumstance into consideration, the decrease in the last quarter is almost phenomenal, in view of the fact that the average number of failures for the third quarter of the preceding four years was 2,223, or nearly double the number of last quarter's failures, while the average liabilities for the third quarter of the four years was 52 millions, exceeding by three times the amount of liabilities of the third quarter of 1879. The figures for the quarter just ended, therefore, add another to the many indications of the wonderfully improved condition of trade throughout the country. For the nine months of the two years the comparison is almost as favorable as for the quarter just closed—the failures for the first three quarters in 1879 being 5320 in number, as against 8678 for the nine months of 1878. The liabilities are 81 millions for the first nine months of 1879 as against 197 millions for the same period of 1878—a reduction in liabilities of more than one half.

Domestic Products.

Since our last weekly review the wheat market has been somewhat fluctuating, at times declining considerably and again being checked in its downward tendency. The course it has taken with the unsteadiness which has marked it for nearly a fortnight indicates that it is being extensively manipulated by speculators. The English market reports of latest telegraphic dates show a decline more gradual but not so great as that which has taken place in the United States, and particularly in San Francisco, where quotations ran down from $2 15 to $1 90 in the course of 48 hours. The local market, with all its unsteadiness has been tolerably active and the aggregate volume of transactions, though not so large as for some of the weeks prior, during the season, has been quite heavy. It is claimed that the bulk of the surplus not yet shipped is in strong hands and will not be put on the market at less than $2 per cental for choice, but this is a sort of a general position taken by those whose interests prompt them to bull the market, than the unbiased utterance of good judges. Except in cases where engaged vessels are on the hands of shippers, orders are to fill, buyers here are not apt to advance prices until the markets abroad show an upward inclination or are at least again free from the speculative control which seems to have the upper hand in running them at present. The quotable price is difficult to give without a range of at least five cents on the cental: some lots called average commanding not over $1 85, others $1 87½, and choice being taken at $1 90, while holders who do not have to sell at present, ask all the way up to $2 per cental.

Farish's Market Reports is in receipt of advices by mail from Dornbusch, London, in which he says that Walla Walla average is 6d above California average. This is different from what we have been led heretofore to suppose, but there is no disputing the fact that Walla Walla wheat of this season's crop shows well, and when received abroad will command from 6d to 9d above California's average.

Flour is in good supply and as it followed the rise in wheat somewhat slowly, the car movement downward as the cereal declines, is correspondingly slow, and prices are firm at $6 for standard extras; choice country brands, $5 75; common, $5 50; superfine, $4 75. The demand is very fair.

Oats have undergone no important change since our last report, prices being steady and transactions rather limited for the season.

Hay, mill feed, etc., are in full supply and former prices are scarcely maintained.

Provisions and dairy products are steady at current quotations with some increase in the volume of transactions.

Wool has changed hands in considerable quantities for the season and prices show a material advance.

The Doctor has also brought charts and manikins to illustrate his lectures.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN has been fifteen years lecturing on the Laws of Life and Health. In his private and public lectures he has taught men and women the true system of life, how to be healthy and happy, if they would only be guided by his wise cousel. But all cannot hear his delightful and instructive lectures, nor can he tell everything necessary for suffering humanity to know from the public rostrum before a promiscuous audience. There remains much to be learned from him as his experience extends over broad fields of active professional life. This knowledge so necessary to the welfare of the sufferer can only be gleaned by private Professional Consultation at his office.

His experience, in the various parts of Europe and America give him such opportunities of learning the delicate diseases which the human family are prone to, their mode of treatment and permanent cure, as no other physician on the Pacific Coast can claim. He has not only treated those diseases most successfully, but has made them a life study, as a few moments' consultation will prove.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

IT IS TRUE

That persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Those who call in time upon DR. PAUL M. BRENAN need have no fear but what he will restore them to perfect health and vigor, make their body pure and their mind content if they will only follow his advice and treatment.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder. He can cure without fail. No Quack Nostrums used; no lotions or no false promises.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Consultation Free and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally, and time Surgical Operations promoted.

OVERALLS

Are sold by leading dealers in this city and on this coast, because—

"THEY CONTAIN THE BEST MATERIAL,

ARE SEWN WITH LINEN THREAD,

And ARE THE MOST PERFECT FITTING."

In putting on or taking off Overalls, the strain on the crotch often causes them to rip; and to remedy this we are making a continuous strip of cloth, extending the entire length of both sides of the Overall from the crotch, and secured the rem at every point. (Under these improvements, a chain Bolster Overalls will stand greater strain than any other make in the market.)

Observe the Trade Mark and take no other.
